

Construction Notice – June 11, 2020

Mary Street Storm Drain Relief System

- The City of Austin Watershed Protection Department will begin a storm drain relief system project in order to relieve pressure on the existing undersized drainage system and alleviate localized flooding.
- A work zone will be established on the northern side of Mary Street at East Bouldin Creek and continue east toward Newton Street through construction. The northern side of Mary Street will be sectioned off from traffic. Both eastbound and westbound traffic will remain open through the majority of construction to install the underground storm drain system. Near the end of construction, Mary Street will be closed temporarily to accommodate paving operations and diverting thru traffic to adjacent streets.
- Construction is expected to start Thursday, June 11 and should be complete by October 2020, weather permitting. Work hours currently are 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays. There may be occasional weekend work.
- More information on the project can be found here: austintexas.gov/marystorm
